Independence Day was the most highlighted event of August, where we tried to instil the flavour of India. Students turned up in traditional dresses. There was flag hoisting, followed by a musical programme featuring patriotic songs, and it ended with Indian snacks!

The pre-primary sections emphasise concept formation through various activities aimed at developing hand-eye coordination and engaging in role-play. In contrast, the senior section incorporates tabletop activities focused on functional academics and computer skills, among other things.

Pre-vocational unit students were involved in ADLs in the kitchen work.

Senior vocational students took charge of school laundry by collecting used towels from classes, using a colour code (Red Dot for used towels) and Room numbers. Gardening & Tea packaging ran as per schedule.

The student monitor took charge of training a trainee friend to do xeroxing.

Co-curricular music and dressing-up classes are always fun for students.

The senior sections host a Parents' Involvement Programme (PIP) in August, during which parents actively participate in classroom activities related to therapies and vocational classes, such as tea packaging.

Play remains the most integral part of students' time at school, where they are engaged sportively.

Students celebrated Rakhi by making handmade Rakhis class-wise and tying them on faculty members as a mark of security and protection.

Garden produce of August!
