The month of July has been marked by a continuous array of activities in the classroom, therapy wings, and vocational units. Some students in the vocational unit are demonstrating a strong aptitude for fundamental workplace skills, including stock maintenance and paper xeroxing. The students manage the tea packaging unit with increasing independence and actively participate in canteen operations, delivering drinking water to various units. Furthermore, craft continues to be a central area of interest for many of our students.

The Early Intervention Unit offers activity-based classes, including celebrations like birthdays, which are then followed by table-top activities for pre-primary and primary units.

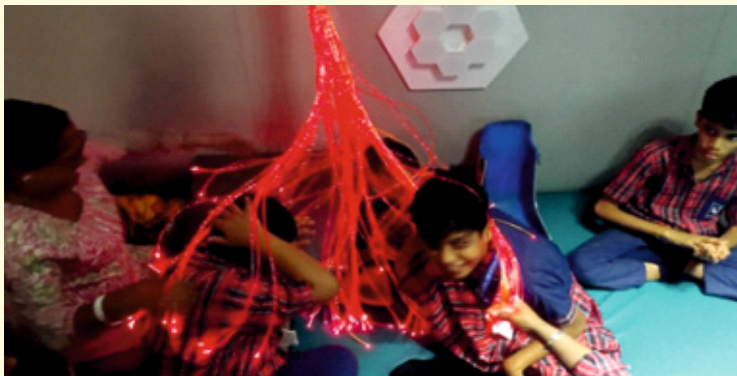

Home-based Teaching Programme (HBTP) units: students participate in their one-to-one sessions; some of our regular students also need additional one-to-one resource support alongside their group class.

Activity-oriented classes effectively promote sustained joint attention among students. Incorporating grooming classes and salon visits for dressing up enhances the overall learning experience, adding an element of engagement and excitement to their education.

Therapies play a crucial role in shaping students' Individualized Education Programs (IEP). Our physiotherapy unit and multisensory units are designed to address the specialized needs of our students. Occupational therapy (OT) has expanded its activities beyond the OT room, extending into the corridors. Additionally, hydrotherapy and the garden pool have introduced a fun and engaging element to the students' daily routine.

Students' outdoor play was restricted due to frequent rain; hence, indoor play was substituted. GSSE has quite a few FIFA fans as our students enjoyed the game.

The Parent Involvement Programme (PIP) was implemented in certain classes. Parents actively participated in various classroom activities and the therapy unit, and they also provided their insights regarding the ongoing programme.

Monsoon bloom at GSSE.
